

The purpose of this website is to provide up-to-date information on arboricultural subjects and a way to earn ISA and LA CES continuing education credits without the hassle and expense of travel and time away from your office and home. There are ten new articles added every three months (40 articles a year) which you can read and earn credits for by passing the corresponding test.

In addition to the current seminars, there are several archived articles from the past years, in-depth Topics of special interest, the Classics which are important articles that were very popular when they appeared in previous Seminars, and Specifications that were written to reflect the latest research efforts to improve the quality and longevity of urban trees.

Find our website at <http://www.gibneyce.com>